With the Giants to take care of the Cubs and the Giants to but away the Phillies, the lead of the Giants went back to ten games yesterday. They need only one more game to take the season's series from the Cubs. The Reds won in the ninth inning from the Brooklyns, and the Bostons took the same sort of a victory from the Cardinals.

The Cubs came into the Polo Grounds growling and feeling their oats yesterday and for four innings hit Mathewson somewhat vengefully. They didn't make many runs while doing this, however, and only once packed away hits in a bunch. The Giants on the other hand took readily to two Chicago pitchers and romped away with the game. They did well both away with the game. They did well both in batting and fielding and won by a

Expert fielding helped Matty over rought spots in the early stage of the game, and for a while it looked as if the game, and for a while it looked as if the Cubs might hit hard enough to be dangerous. They were whanging the ball out although it didn't go safe, but Matty didn't let them go far even when they were doing that, and he had the upper hand of them in every inning but one, in which the ordinarily astute Evers fell into a trap in base running and ended whatever chance the Cubs had for a flock of runs.

The Cubs acted as if they thought the decision needed decodorising.

Murray had to dust out with all his speed to reach a line drive from Williams in the fourth and he was twisted all out of his usual manly shape when he caught it. Evers poked a homer to right in the fifth and a gentle claim by the Giants that he didn't touch first was dismissed by the umpires.

Their Hard, Clean Hitting Puts Dodgers to Defeat by 6 to 4 Score.

DAHLEN KEEPS HIM IN

Fans Not Surprised When His Curves Are Found for Two Runs in Ninth Inning.

Hard, clean hitting by the Cincinnati Reds spelled defeat for the Brooklyns at Ebbets Field yesterday, 6 to 6. Manager Dahlen kept Patrick Don Carlos Ragan in the box the full distance, when in the opinion of many he should have made a change at the end of the fifth frame. The Reds gathered twelve safe smashes off Ragan. Bescher, Egan and Hoblitzell each making three. It is true that Ragan settled down in the sixth, seventh and eighth, but in the ninth his curves were eighth, but in the ninth his curves were cherry pie.

Leon Ames, former Giant, pitched with such telling effect that the Dodgers made but two singles after the fourth session. After Dahlen's men had evened the totals in the sixth round Ames tightened up and only one Dodger reached first base thereafter. The Cincinnatis put up an errorless fielding game and so did the Brooklyns. Tinker covered short field brilliantly, while a youngster named Wickland, who played centre field, made a shoestring catch of a vicious drive by Miller in the third inning, which probably deprived Otto of a homer and helped to put a crimp in a rally.

Smith, Fisher, Cutshaw and Moran carried off the fielding honors for the Brooklyns. Moran made a wonderful throw to the plate in the fifth inning. He caught a long fly from Dodge's bat and then fired the ball squarely into Miller's mitt, doubling up Wickland with plenty to doubling up Wickland with plenty to spare.

Great running catches by Stengel off Wickland and Hoblitzell, with two men on bases, helped to blank the Reds in the first inning. Tinker tripled to right in the second frame and scored the visitors' first run on Dodge's long wallop to Stengel.

Bescher made the second tally for the Reds in the third inning when he beat out a bunt, stole second, reached third on Bates's tremendous hoist that Moran caught with his back to the wall and then ran in on Egan's scratch. Wickland struck out and Hoblitzell, who smashed a single to left, was forced.

The Dodgers tied the score in their turn. Fisher began with the first safe hit off Ames and had to hustle back to first after Wickland made his phenomenal capture of Miller's crack. Ragan received credit for a 'Cincinnati base hit' when he grounded to Ames, whose throw to Tinker for a force was beaten by Fisher.

Ragan was forced by Moran, Fisher landing on third. Moran stole second and both men crossed the pan on Cutshaw's drive that was too hot for Egan. Cutshaw stole second, too, and went to third on a wild pitch, after which Stengel was as for on a ten that Ames falled to reach Daubert worked his way around in the fourth frame, when he beat out a hit to Tinker, ran to third on Smith's clean single to right and counted on a successful squeeze play, Miller's bunt being thrown to first by Ames, who had no time to get Daubert at the plater.

Ragan was a mark in the fifth session, the Reds making two runs and taking the lead. Bescher shot a base hit to right and skipped to third on Bates's single in the same direction. Egan was thrown

Two were out in the sixth when Smith tied the score. He received a pass, stole second and breezed home on Fisher's timely base hit past Dodge, who retired the side by capturing Miller's fierce liner. Ragan opened the Red's final inning by hitting Bescher on the funnybone with a pitched ball. Bates laid down a seat sacrifice and when Egan slapped single to left Bescher came home like a runaway colt. The Rede' mascot, who appeared in uniform yesterday, is the eight-year-old son of Business Manager Frank Bancroft.

Manager Traker expects to have Cy Morgan, the former pitcher of the Athletics, in the lineup before the end of the week. Morgan has been a sensation in the American Association this season. Tinker aslo has a young boxman named Winkler with the team.

When Phelps appeared for the first time on the coaching lines in the minth inning, when the Reds made their winning runs, a cruel fan declared that the Dodgers' veteran catcher was the hoodoo.

After Wheat had been retired in the sixth inning Umpire Riem turned to the Dodgers' bench and exclaimed: "If I hear another word 'll fine somebody $16. If I can't find the man I'll put the whole bunch in the clubhouse."

Red Ames looks thinner than usual. He has been getting plenty of work since leaving the Giants.

COLLEGE MAN FOR DODGERS.

Ebbets Signs Fred Gress, Captain of Leland Stanford University.

President Ebbets of the Brooklyns announced yesterday that he had signed Fred H. Gross, captain of the Leland Stanford University nine in 1911 and Stanford University nine in 1911 and Base, and according to his record for the two campaigns he had a batting average of 396. Gross received offers, it is said, from the Giants and White Sox, but preferred the Dodgers. Ebbets also explained the status of several deals that have been recently made by him. He said that he traded Pitchers Curtis and Hall to the Newarks for Outfielder Bill Collins. He also stated that he had sold Callahan, Erwin and Kent outright to the Toronto club. Erwin notified President McCafferty of Toronto yesterday that he was unable to play good ball, because he had not fully recovered the use of his arm which was broken several months ago. Erwin, therefore, will be allowed to spend the rest of the season at his home in Rochester, his salary in full to be paid jointly by the Brooklyn and Toronto clubs.

FIRST"; ALICE VICTOR 1913 Gets Under Way

THE football season of 1913 was opened in New York yesterday or rather last night. The inaugural game was played in City Hall Park, beginning at 9:30 o'clock. The rival teams—seven on a side were made up of boys varying from 10 to 15 years of age. A score of persons stood around the iron fence and watched the game, which was played with a real football. The smallest urchin of all was the star, making flying tackles according to Hoyle. The final score was nothing to nothing, principally because a big policeman arrived on the scene after only five minutes of the first half had been played.

Metropolitan Circuit Meeting Ends-Most Successful Ever at Goshen.

GOSHEN, Aug. 21.—The light harness, meeting of the metropolitan circuit, which closed here to-day, was the most successful meeting ever held at the local track.

Trotters in the 2:20 class in competition for the Inn purse opened the programme. This race differed from the others only in the fact that the conditions called for amateurs to drive. Pierre Lorillard, Jr., drove his brown mare Notice B. and she demonstrated in the first heat that if she stayed on her feet she could win the race. She trotted a long mile, but was well in the lead in the second lap. As she neared the wire Billy Miller, a Fred Kohl gelding owned by James Farley, came up on the outside and almost nosed her out. The heat went to a collision. This caused her to break an the heat went to The Expose, from the Parkway Farm. Thomas G. Hinds of Speedway fame captured the next lest with E. D. Hollenbeck's bay gelding The Counsellor, with Billy Miller in second place. The fourth, fifth and sixth heats straight heats. Farmer Gentry, a good looking bay stallion by John R. Gentry, won the trotting race, with Koroni A closs second in each heat. In the exhibition of side wheelers Don Patch, a Bon Patch gelding, had things pretty much his ov way. His fastest time was 2:1014, made in the second heat. The beautiful silver trophy offered the Hon. Samuel McMillan to the trot making the fastest time during the me ing was won by B. A. Bulkley's Raffles. Raffles started in the 2:12 trot the opening day of the meeting and trotted the third heat in 2:10%. The summaries:

"I read in a paper the other day that Mike Mitchell said I had treated him badly and that he was glad to be with the Pirates. That's what all players say when they are canned. Mitchell sure is glad to be with the Pirates, for they were only club to file a claim when we asked for waivers. If they had waived Mitchell would have gone to Kankakee or Tusca-
